

The Sorrentino Scoop

May 1st, 2017

Dear Parents/Guardians,

Wow! The last month of school is upon us. I am so proud of each of your children on their hard work. As a class, we have come such a long way since the beginning of the year. We have developed as leaders, mathematicians, authors, scientists, and friends. ☺ In our final month, we will be running a lemonade stand, presenting our animal research, and brushing up on our math skills. This final stretch will be filled with interactive learning opportunities!

Our Month of Learning:

Reading: We are working specifically on summarizing, main idea and details, compare and contrast, and author's purpose. We are finishing up our read aloud Lemonade War and will be running our own lemonade stand.

Math: We will be working on rounding, multi-step problems, graphing, and perimeter review. Keep practicing your multiplication and division!

Writing: We are continuing our nonfiction animal research. The students are finishing up their animal books in time for Literacy Night!

Science: We are beginning to learn about life cycles.

Monthly Theme: Effort. We are focusing on continuing to give our best effort in everything that we do in our classroom and throughout KM!
